month ago for so and a revolver. A twe-los-lar note was among the money.

The morning after the tragedy C. W. Dun-mick, a section boss on the same road, paid an account at the store near by. One end of a $2 note ke paid was bloody. The bill was sent to a chemist for analysis of the blood. He pronounced it human blood.

On this evidence, and the fact that Dun-mick had Pierce's revolver and pocketbook, he was arrested and will have a beacher.
